My dearest Aunt -

I waited to answer your letter with the most generous suggestions while I was in correspondence with Nott. Also looking for a day to day to hear that I have got a new American publisher, when the market was, a very slowly, solve it self.

But nothing definite has turned out yet from either quarter. It's splendid as your part to suggest such a thing. I still hope it want be necessary. But what an appalling way it all is! I ought to have something more definite both from my agents. Nott is a day also, I will write at length.

I've also written to the child's head-mistress explaining the situation. I am sure you have done so but thought she had better hear from me as well. This for the moment - Always your most loving
