

~~22/2/29~~

Dear John:

I didn't come to-day - I was busy, & I thought that the ~~things~~ at least would be happier without the fair of us. I tried twice to ring up, but two wrong numbers discouraged me - I shall go to morrow.

I have had a letter from Foster about the £27 due to the ~~things~~. It is intolerable to me that it should not be paid at once.

I shall have money shortly - in a week or so - but can't raise that yet.

It was agreed between us that we should divide her expenses here, & both Foster & I think that you should pay half.

You agreed to that - now you come down

on me for it all,

Can't you see that ~~nothing~~ ~~over~~ can a
will be arranged on such a basis? you
to say what you like, get what you like, promise an equal share, & then leave it all to me? If I were well & well off, it would be bad enough; as it is,

when every effort I make exhausts me &
sends up my temperature, it makes the situation impossible. If you'll send the Hypos ~~the~~ your half, I'll get the rest.

But with no sign of good-will from
you, what do you expect.

One sign of keeping to your side
would convince me more than anything,
but sign following sign of ill will —?

The business would have been settled
long ago but for that.

There was no receipt a copy of a receipt from Ade Soudis in your letter.
