

Villefranche

Darling dear:

The flat waits your inspection
any morning - the sooner the better.

31. Bd Tsarevitch. Leave the station: follow station boulevard to the right: come to a black iron bridge: turn under it. First on left, your street. The street-tram takes you any way.

Ascend the boulevard, till you pass the Russian church - a bunch of colored hermits in various lengths.
house on your left, at a corner: one in construction beside it: grand view: big striped curtain billows out over door. No carriage: press button to 1st floor: wriggle bell. 'N de Chisbave Hobet.

Have a frightful favour to ask.

Did a slight faint this morning - heat. Can't get off at Cannes or unpaired ring. Here is the chit for it, a cash. Could you one day do it for me?
I really did pass out with the heat & have to take a later train. It is a good ring & my heart would break to lose it. Note enclosed to the man.
No great haste about it either, but in the name of all the rabbits do this if you can.

Yours
Mary.

And if you feel you can send it up.
Send it - or give it to a friend to leave in his. Or keep it till we meet - which isn't likely to be long.

But I love that map awfully - it is difficult to write - head queer. Save it or get it to we somehow, Douglas dear -
