Seunen Cove.

My dear Nalin

We are waiting most anxiously for the sight of you all. The maid I have got seems a dear, & most competent from all I have heard.

The only question now is about towels &
sheets - etc. They make a horrible kind of luggage,
I know; but we've only about enough for ourselves, &
Douglas said you could bring them.

It's like this: We have sheets & pillow-cases for a double-bed. You, if you prefer it, will sleep in that, so we'll have to have something - what you can bring - for 3 single beds - (We have no single sheet.) 3 pillow cases, at least,
(We can wash these at home; & we're rather short on towels.)

That's all. Then, as for blankets,
Could you conceivably bring 2 more, or more of some kind for Paddy? Small size. (Alternative)

It can be cool here at night. Otherwise we'd be sweating.

A bit hot, my dear.
In haste.

Jan.

I'll put it down again in a bit.

Minimum.

5 or 6 small sheets (3 beds)

3 pillows - cases (more preferable.)

a few towels - especially face towels, if you've any very old ones for the beach.

2 blankets or rugs.
